Dear Parent,

Your family is potentially eligible to participate in ConnectMe, a multi-center clinical trial evaluating the effect of an investigational medication on the core symptoms of autism. The investigational medication has been approved by the FDA for use in the treatment of other conditions since 2003. A unique formulation and dosage of the medication has been designed for evaluation in pediatric patients with autism.

This study is sponsored by Forest Research Institute and involves the collaboration of approximately 16 pediatric clinical research investigators at academic centers and private practices across the United States. In total, this study aims to enroll over 80 families of children with autistic disorder.

The time commitment for all families of enrolled patients involves visiting your local clinic 8 times over a 14-week period (approximately one visit every 2 weeks). The time spent at each of these visits will vary based on the number of expert evaluations and tests that are conducted and requires that the same caregiver attend each visit with the enrolled child. All study medication and comprehensive study-related evaluations will be provided at no cost.

Children who complete this study are eligible for participation in a 48-week long open-label study.

We invite you to contact the study team by phone at (888) 561-3939 or through our website at www.ConnectMeResearchStudy.com if you are interested in joining the study.

Thank you for your support in the advancement of autism research.

Sincerely,

The ConnectMe Study Team
